

SICSS Retreat 2024

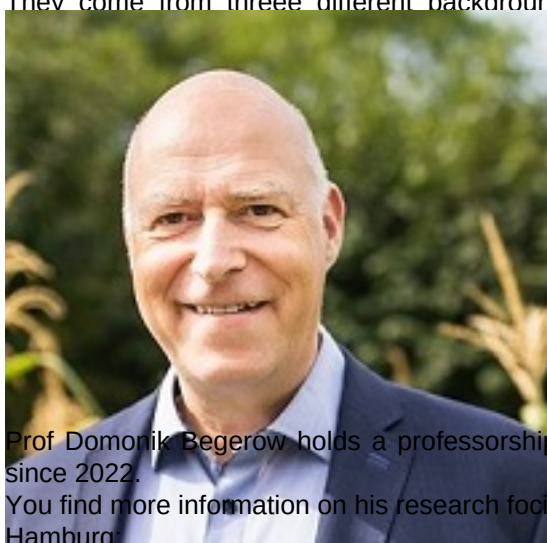

Monday, 27 May 2024 - Wednesday, 29 May 2024

Hotel 'Zur Heidschnucke, Asendorf

Main Topic "Biodiversity and Climate Change"

We are delighted that we have been able to recruit three very interesting people for our main topic 'Biodiversity and Climate Change'.

They come from three different backgrounds, i.e. science & research (Prof. Begerow, Univ. Hamburg -Ministry for the Environment, Climate, Energy and Nature, WWF)

Prof Dominik Begerow holds a professorship in the Biology Department of Universität Hamburg since 2022. You find more information on his research focus and interests in the post of the newsroom Universität Hamburg

Info on the speaker of our main topic as well as the agenda for the retreat has still to be completed. Please check from time to time

Bernd-Ulrich Netz, born in 1965, is a qualified biologist and studied at the Universities of Hamburg and Sussex (England). After graduating, he worked as a landscape planner in a planning office and later in the Hamburg-Altona Nature Conservation Division. From 2003 to 2013, he set up and managed the Nature Conservation Office (Schleswig-Holstein). From 2013 to 2021 B.-U. Netz worked as Head of the Nature Conservation Department, Hamburg, and since 2021 he is Head of the Nature Conservation Department at the Environmental Authority in Hamburg.

Julika Tribukait has been working for the WWF for the past seven years. Right now, she is the interim director of the marine programme at WWF.

You find more information about her at her linked-in profile.
